THE INSECT TRAGEDY

During the past 30 years, almost 75 % of the world's insects have disappeared. Several scientists speak of the beginning of the sixth great species extinction of our planet. What makes it more shocking, is that this massive loss of species is man-made. And it will have consequences for ALL inhabitants of the earth. What are the causes behind this and just what are the consequences? High-profile scientists from all corners of the globe supply very frightening and startling answers.
