SO LONG, SON-IN-LAW!

Toni Freitag is a family man and a hard-working owner of a small business. If all goes well he will soon be crowned king of marksmen in the small Bavarian village, where he lives with his wife Anne and his daughter Franzi. He left his Turkish heritage behind years ago and he would like for it to stay that way. He categorically refuses any vacation in Turkey and does not tell his family about his past. No wonder then that he is far from thrilled to see the surprise guest that Franzi invited to his home and has fallen deeply in love with: Osman Göker, charming and handsome student from Berlin – and of Turkish descent. When they decide to get married, Toni sets out to separate Franzi from Osman, with all means necessary. He is so driven that he does not realise how he jeopardises everything that is dear to him.
